

Burnt Out

Contributed by Adam Rice
Wednesday, 16 January 2008

I'm going through a little burn out helping people. There are broken links everywhere and places that need much, much work done in order to bring them up to where I envision this website going.

For now, there really isn't any traffic to this website so I don't think I'm really hurting anyone. Before I go though, I will setup the contact form and a valid email address to reach me at. Just in case you've stumbled upon this site and I've managed to revive some of the passion for the industry.